Funding Opportunities

The Office of Proposal Support Services has developed a Sponsored Funding Opportunities webpage which is updated weekly with new federal, state and foundation funding opportunities relevant to campus. Below are some highlighted opportunities:

NSF Dynamic Language Infrastructure - NEH Documenting Endangered Languages (DLI-DEL)
This funding partnership between NSF and NEH supports projects to develop and advance knowledge concerning dynamic language infrastructure in the context of endangered human languages—languages that are both understudied and at risk of falling out of use.
Proposal Deadline: Nov. 18, 2020

NIST Public Safety Innovation Accelerator Program - Augmented Reality
NIST is seeking applications to accelerate research and development around the use of augmented reality for improving public safety user interfaces.
Proposal Deadline: Oct. 1, 2020

Amazon Research Awards (ARA)
ARA funds proposals in a variety of research areas relevant to Amazon such as robotics, machine learning, security, and more.
Proposal Deadline: Oct. 11, 2020

Sponsored Funding Awards

The Office of Sponsored Programs (OSP) provides monthly updates on all proposals submitted through OSP and awarded to the Syracuse University community. You may access OSP Highlights on answers.syr.edu (NetID and password required).

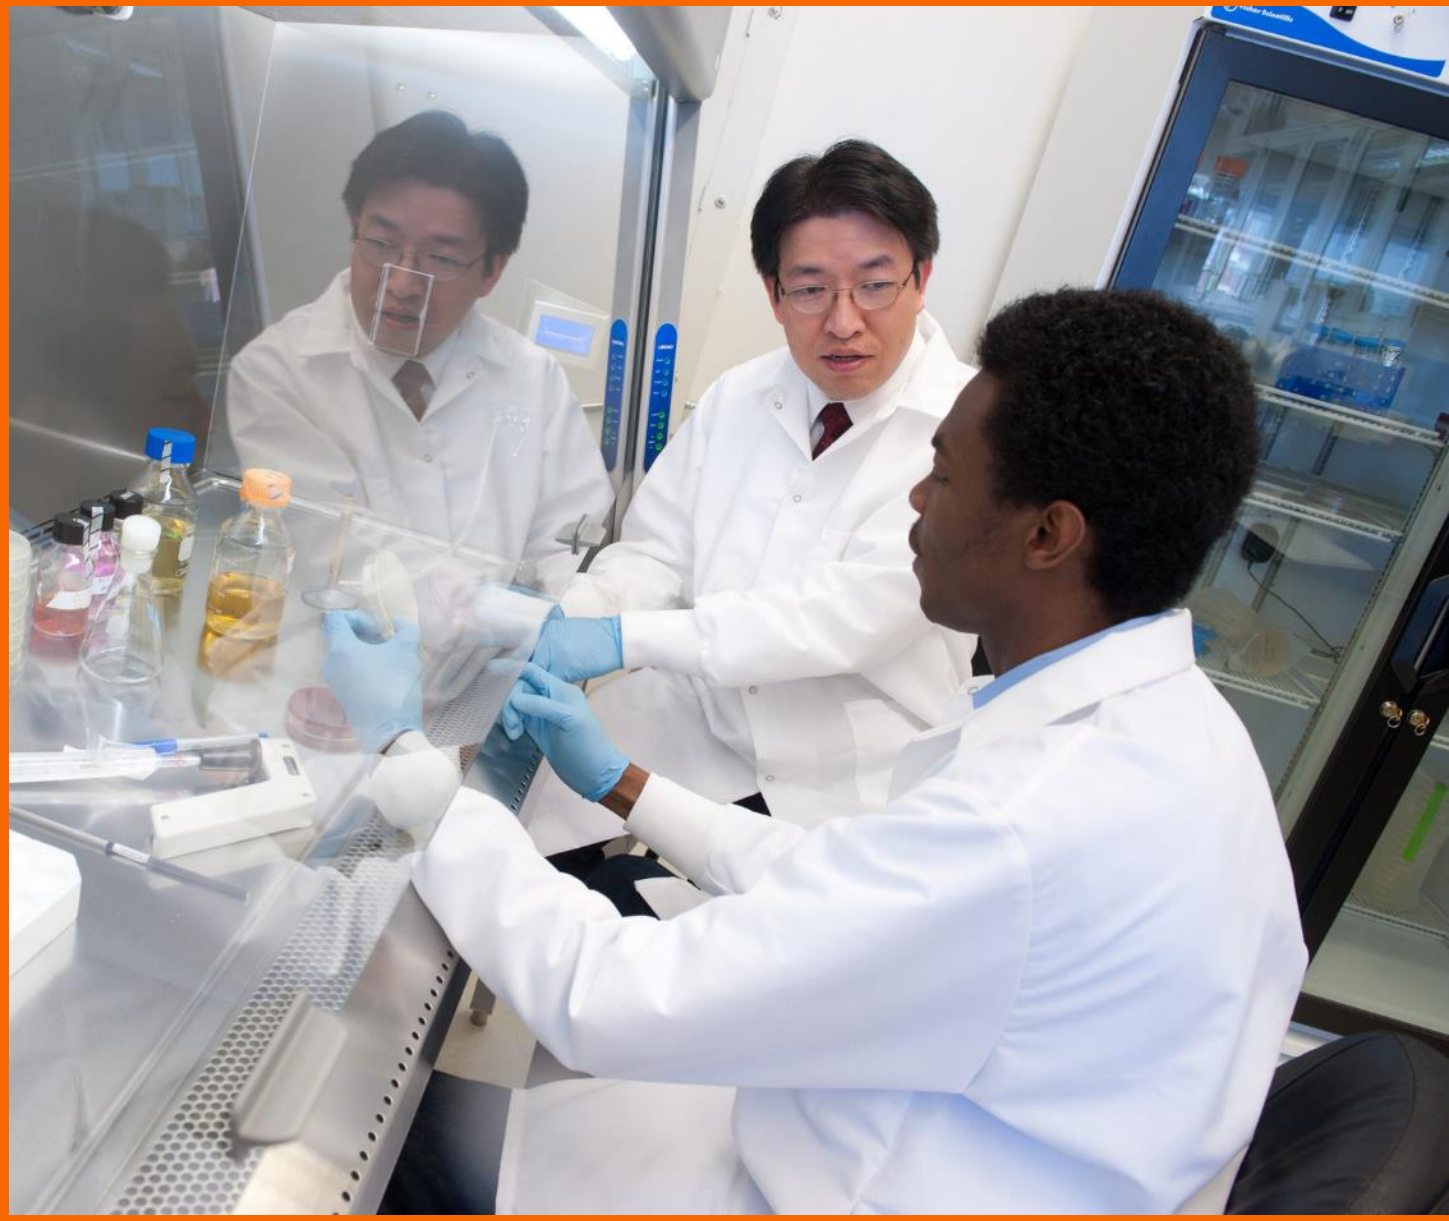
Technology Transfer

TechTransfer.syr.edu



Who is Technology Transfer?

Jennifer Crisp, Director,
jmcrisp@syr.edu

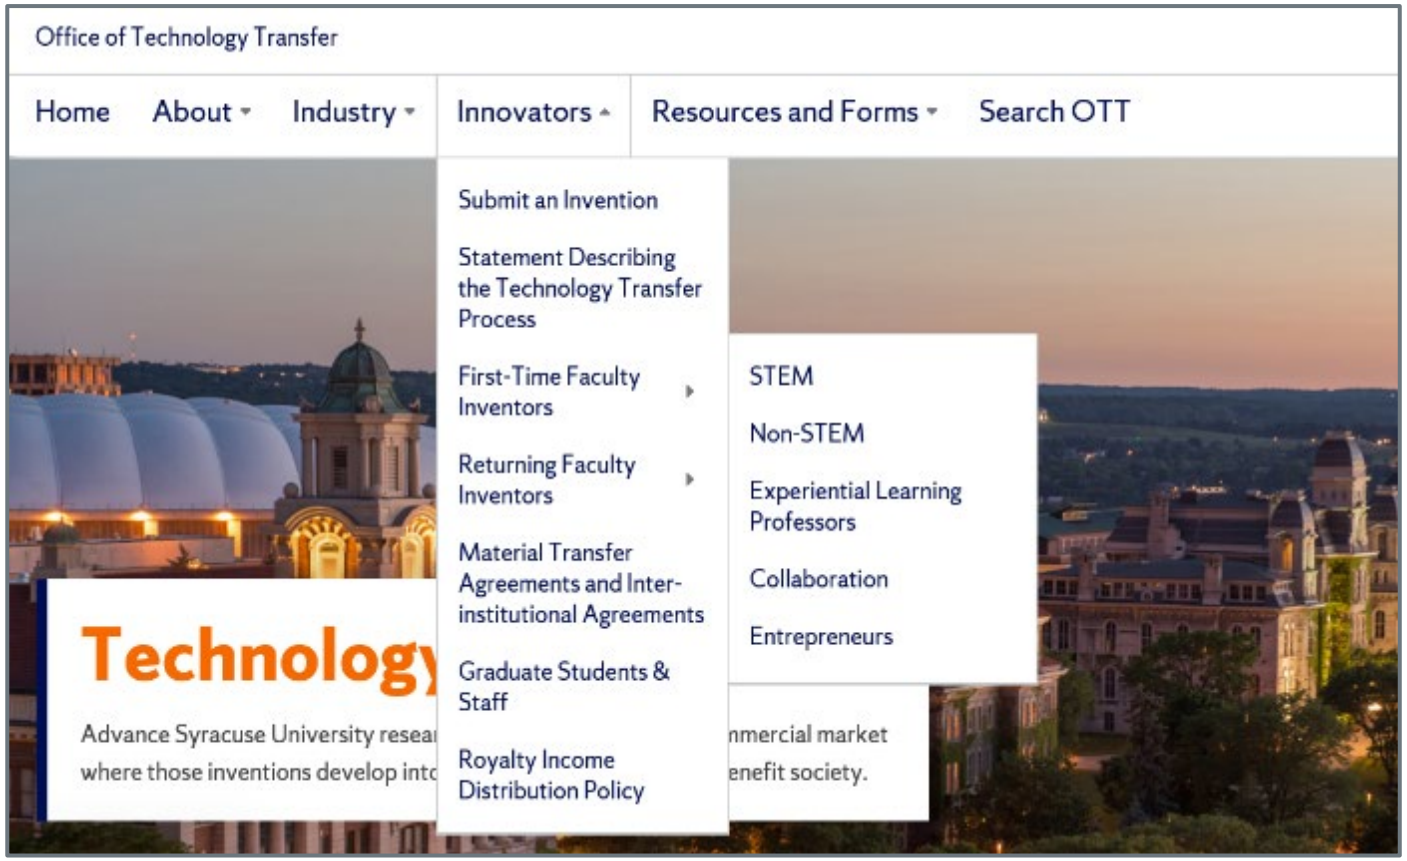
Elizabeth Jeffery,
Operations Specialist,
jeffery@syr.edu

What does Tech Transfer do?

Our office seeks to advance Syracuse University Research from the academy to the commercial market where those inventions & innovations are incorporated into products and services that benefit society.

What is tech transfer?

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TRY_p-59_bY&feature=emb_title



What is Technology Transfer at SU?

At it's core, the Office of Technology Transfer supports the research ecosystem first by evaluating and protecting intellectual property ("IP") created by our researchers and scholars; second by liaising with sponsors regarding IP; also by marketing and licensing the IP.

In addition, we serve as an "IP" & commercialization help desk of sorts for the university community in support of researchers.

How to work with Tech Transfer

When you contact us …

To report newly created software or a patentable invention: Alert us to the innovation via invention disclosure portal (see link, top right of slide)

For general guidance, e-mail or call with a summary of what sort of guidance you are seeking. We'll reply with an answer or a suggestion that we meet to gather more information and formulate next steps.

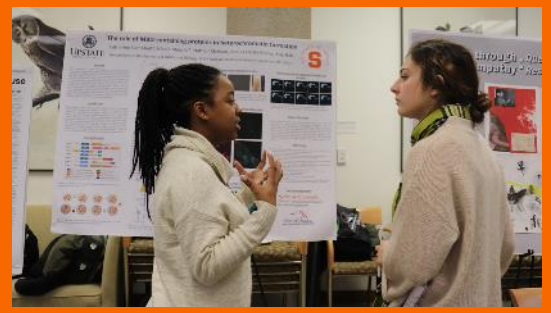
The SOURCE
Syracuse Office of Undergraduate Research and Creative Engagement

research.syr.edu/source



Who is the SOURCE?

Kate Hanson

Director

Cathryn Newton

Senior Advisor to the Chancellor
& Provost for Faculty Engagement

Student Research Mentor Team

What does the SOURCE do?

- All-University center for student and faculty support and training
  - Workshops, training, assistance with finding opportunities
  - Student Research Mentor Program
  - Presentation opportunities
- Funding agency
  - Grant programs and support for faculty mentors
- Institutional resource and hub
  - Communication about opportunities and sharing the rich stories of research/creative work
  - Data collection and assessment

How to work with the SOURCE

For Faculty:

The SOURCE provides expanded funding opportunities and serves as a hub to foster and support diverse undergraduate engagement in faculty-guided scholarly research and creative inquiry across all disciplines and programs at SU.

We work with faculty in all phases of student participation in the research process:

- Encouraging students to begin research
- Including students in your own research
- Mentoring student-designed projects
- Creating more efficient training for student researchers
- Fostering best practices for mentorship

The SOURCE team is available to meet by phone or video Monday-Friday.

SOURCE staff and Student Research Mentors are available to make presentations or hold workshops for classes or student groups.

Email Kate Hanson, khanso01@syr.edu to arrange a meeting or presentation, or discuss involving students in your research!
